

IT Technical and Professional Training

Maintain and obtain key technical and professional skills and certifications

Total offers IT technical training for all key vendors as well as ITIL and PRINCE2 training. You benefit from access to a wide range of proven courses, expert advice and excellent rates.

Why would you want it?

In IT, perhaps more than any other area, it's important to continuously update and develop your knowledge and skills.

Total offers IT technical and professional training courses that enable you and your team to maintain and extend your technical and professional capabilities.

With technical training and professional development from Total you will benefit from:

- well structured, delegate proven, training programmes
- experienced and knowledgeable course leaders
- classroom, virtual classroom (multi-time zone remote delivery) and private (in company) delivery options
- access to a comprehensive catalogue of courses
- choice of dates and venues
- excellent rates.

What Total do

Total can source pretty much any IT training you require: whether that's training on a specific vendor technology (such as Microsoft, Cisco, VMware, Citrix, Hewlett Packard Enterprise, Amazon Web Services or more specialist vendors like CheckPoint or RedHat) or an industry certification such as ITIL service management or PRINCE2 project management.

Why Total?

Total work with a specialist training advisor able to access courses from leading training providers. As well as traditional classroom delivery, and the option of dedicated in company training, for many courses Virtual Classroom training is also available. This combines the benefits of standard instructor-led classroom training, including interaction with other delegates, with the any place participation of remote delivery and sessions scheduled in many time zones.

Owing to our combined buying power we can provide most of these courses at better rates than you could obtain by going direct – plus you get the benefit of our expert training advisor doing all the legwork for you.
